

A COLLEGE DEGREE DESIGNED FOR YOUR LIFE

SNHU's College for America builds its high quality, accredited program around your needs.

CORI

"I called so many colleges asking, 'How does a person like me go to school?' College for America was the first to tell me, 'We're exactly what you're looking for.'"

Cori never saw herself going to college. But when her career stopped providing the stability she needed, she wondered whether someone like her could start over.

"I got lucky when I found College for America. As a 35-year-old working adult, I went from being on food stamps to getting my bachelor's degree."

JENEANE

"I didn't have my own place. I was bouncing from my mother's to my in-laws'. My mentor was there for me, creating the schedule that was best for my family."

When Jeneane's husband became entangled in the criminal justice system, she had to provide for their 2 toddlers by herself. She needed new opportunities, and she needed them fast.

"I want to finish school before my kids start school. I want my career, my family, and my life to be ready for their future."

DES

"Sometimes I get lazy. I gave my mentor permission to text me, call me, and push me when I need it."

As a single mother working a fulltime job, Des needed support. Her mentor kept her focused, but also cut her slack. "Sometimes I need him to remind me I can take a week off to focus on family.

"The day I got my associate degree, I cried. I woke up my son at 4:15 in the morning to tell him. Everything I've done, everything that I've been through, is for him."
